Bangladesh Mission

After several years of operational experiences as a federal registered nonprofit in Canada, HSDN International is now moving forward for branching in different countries and creating local level associations, believing that everyone has a share in sustainability, and we can bring changes together. Our branching in Bangladesh is an effort to expand our domain to reach institutes and individuals with inspiration, encouragement, and support to attain our common goals of creating more kind and prosperous life on earth.

Bangladesh is a developing country with environmental vulnerability. HSDN focuses on environmental and socio-cultural sustainability but not limited to that. What is in a name? For the HSDN, our name is our goal; to create a practical model for worldwide holistic sustainable development. In doing so, we are striving to reconcile economic growth with environmental interests and the protection of unique societal practices, cultures, and traditions.

HSDN acknowledges the interdependence and interconnectedness of all aspects of development. HSDN Bangladesh Chapter activities will include publishing Sustainability Review Magazine to promote and recognize sustainable activities, Creating clubs in communities to engage them in sustainability activities and emergency voluntary responses, Establishing model communities and any other activities that may serve the mother organizational vision, mission, values and objectives to create a better society.
